Three times in that fifth game Nastase served aces, and still Connors woo it, tearing in to retrieve a drop shot for the break to 4-1. It dido't seem important at the time, but Connors made four consecutive errors to lose his serve and that was the clue to the deluge that followed. Connors won the set after Nastase made an incredible recovery shot that drifted

Then Nastase made his run. He had paid $6,000 in fines earlier this week to get into the tournament and today he won $30,000. One of the reasons be won, be said, was that "Jimmy lose power on the forehand in the third set. In the second and third sets he just push it."

Connors atrained his left or forehand elbow on Wednesday and had played with it bound up all week. In a press conference later he refused to talk about the elbow "We both play pretty much alike," Conoors said, "and we both can make spectaculac shots. Today be made them."

Weak though that fore-band may have been, it was still Nastase's range of shot and speed that made the 10-game streak possible. Con-

oors had three break points against Nastase's service in the first game, oussing a simple volley astride the net. He had game points to both the cext two games, but was feoced off as Nastase re-

In the fourth game, he made three successive errors on the forehand and in this debacle lost 9 points running, with the set soon gone at After five advantage points, Connors finally won to make it 4-I in the third set and

At the national indoor championships three weeks ago, Jan Merrill took advantage of a similar error by Julie Brown in the women's hands'up triumphantly with her closing steps, while Miss Merrill leaned into the tape and saved her waving for the victory lap.

A week later, at the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America Eamonn Cogblan flashed a big victory sign to the Villanova cheeriog section as he crossed the line. # How to Concentrate And Sink 5-Footer putt in golf for the weekend player?.

I submit that it is tha 5-footer.

The weekend golfer often misses the green, or barely makes the green but leaves himself a putt from here to eternity After his chip shotor long putt, he faces tha 5-footer.

Your performance from 5 feet can be the difference between a satisfying round and a sour one. Your scoring depends heavily on how many of these saving putts you can sink.

·The first consideration on a 5-foot putt is to read it accurately. A common mistake is to infer too much break.

A 5-foot putt should be virtually straight. If the hole has been cut fairly, the area around it is flat. Almost never should you aim a 5-foot putt outside the hole. If you think it will bend from left to right, aim just inside the left edge. As the tour pros say about short putts. "Don't give away the hole." Plap It Straight

When in doubt, play the 5-footer straight. Having settled on your line, stroke the putt firmly. Countless millions of such putts

What is the most important come up. short every year because we baby them. The back of the left hand end wrist must be solid at impact: Pull the back of the left hand through the ball.

You can even try to feel that you are putting the back of the left hand into the hole aloog with the ball. Lee Trevioo is perhaps the best 5-foot putter in the game. He likes to have the feeling that the heel of the putter is leading the toe into the ball. That's his way of guaranteeing that the left hand leads the stroke. Finally, if we have to live with a lot of 5-foot putts, it only makes sense that we practice them more.

Forget 15-Footers

Too many of us spend our time on the practice green putting from IS feet. You won't get many IS-foot putts on the course. Not only that, you won't make them consistently with all the practice in the world.

Practice the putts you can make and the putts that are imperative. Practice the 5footer until it's an old friend. You can start indoors during the offseason, on the carpet. Unless, of course, you have a shag rug.

Nick Seitz is editor of Golf Digest Mogazine,

Lee Trevino, a master of the crucial five-foot putt, keeps back of his left hand and wrist firm through ball.

Hogan delivered the recaotations to Selwyn Raab of The New York Times, the investigative reportr who had become involved in the Carter case after a meeting with Hogan and Richard Solomon, an aspiring New York screen writer. Solomoo also had been deeply involved in the Carter case long before it was fashionable. Solomon had urged media exposure of Carter's unjust incarceration. He also had been the in-stigator of the Rubin Carter Defense Committee, a factor in the hiring of Myron Beldlock and Lewis Steel as attorneys for Carter and Artis, and the link to the recent involvement of Muhammad Ali, the world heavyweight boxing champion.

Since the recantations, dozens of elebrities bave jumped on Rubin Carter's bandwagon, but Fred Hogan bad made the bandwagon possible. Rubin Carter hasn't forgotten that.

Before his bail bearing began Friday, he phoned Fred Hogan at his Brielle, N. J., home where he lives with his wife, Mary, his bride of six months.

The court documeots, bowever, which include memorandums from the former N.B.A. commissioner, Walter

Kennedy, to team owners and pages from the N.B.A. ledgers, establish the fact.
There is no direct evidence in the papers that the A.B.A. teams had such an arrangement, though there were reports to that effect after the league's founding in 1967. The league, through its counsel, Michael H. Goldberg, declined to comment on the matter, pointing out that it was a subject of pending litigation. The documents on file do teams got reductions in their league assessments for signing such stars as Julius Erving and David Thompson, and that all of the A.B.A. teams guaranteed the first $700,000 of Thompson's con-tract in the event his employer, the Denver Nuggets, went into delault.

The document a revealing the pool are part of a 15foot stack of papers filed in the Federal suit known as the Oscar Robertson case. In addition to the public record, there are more than 31,000 N.B.A. documents and depositions that are sealed.

The suit began in 1970 as an action by Robertson and 13 other players against the N.B.A. seeking an end to the reserve clause and other contractual provisions. against the N.B.A., charging that the aenior league en-gaged in monopolistic prac-tices designed to drive competitors out of business. The suits were then com-bined in one complex case. The players' action is being settled out of court.

The A.B.A.'s antitrust action still stands, however, and is scheduled for trial before Judge Robert L. Carter on Juna 1. The court record contains many of the closely held financial secrets of profes-sional hasketball. Among other revelations in the papers, all based on documents or sworn statements, are the following:

GA confidential memo from Gourdine dated March 12, 1975, listing the salaries of the "ten best" forwards in the N.B.A. indicates that Bradley, a nine-year man, is the highest paid at that position. Bradley, whose 1975-76 sal-ary is $325,000, makes more than Spencer Haywood ($302,-000), John Havlicek ($250,-000), Rick Barry ($237,500), Elvin Hayes ($202,000), Jim McMillian ($200,000), Rudy Tomianovich ($166,666), Bob Dandridge ($152,000), Bob Love ($141,200) or Steve Mix ($45,000).

For the 1974-75 season, when they were the A.B.A. delending champion, the New York Nets claimed a loss of $1,497,840 on their Federal tax return. The team's gross revenue was $2,326,925, including $2,083,000 in gate receipts. The season's payroll was $1,350,000 for players and $85,000 for coaches.

When Wilt Chamberlain was the coach of the San Diego Conquistadors in the 1973-74 A.B.A. season, the team paid him $510,000 while the salaries of his 11 players totaled $469,000. In that season, the Conquistadors had gate receipts of $241,551.50. Needless to say, the team is now defunct.

Though the Neis did noi

announce it when they traded Larry Kenon to San Antonio

John Havlicek $250,000 a year

last summer, they remain obligated to pay $325,000 to-ward the forward's salary tending through 1983.

The N.B.A. pool arrangements for the 1968 and 1969 drafts were complex. The 1968 draft choices covered were Hayes, Unseld, Bob Kauffman, Tom Boerwinkle, Don Smith (later Zaid Abdul-Aziz), Otto Moore, Charlie Paulk, Gary Gregor, Ron Wil-lians, Bill Hosket, Don Cha-ney and Shaler Halimon.

The players were sigoed to three-year contracts at totals ranging from $313,000 for Unseld and $308,000 for Hayes to $77,000 for Williams. The individual clubs paid most of the cost—$200,000 for Hayes, $156,000 for Unseld, $75,000 for the rest -and the pool paid the balance, coming to $39,078.60 for each team.

The next year, the pool paid $300,000 toward the contract of the first draft choice (Abdul-Jabbar), $150,-000 for the second (Walk). $100,000 for the third (Allen) and so forth.

According to a person fa-miliar with league operations at that time, the pool for the 196g and 1969 drafts was arrived at by a "gentlemen's agreement" among the own-ers without participation of the league office. The decision to supplement Barry's salary was taken at a league

Kennedy replied that salaries of other players were available on request by telcphone at the league office, but could not be put in writ-ing. In his 1975 memo, Gourdine did give salaries of the forwards the league office considered the best, apparently as a guide for salary negotiations. Sworn statements by players who were a party to the suit show the huge advances in salary made after the founding of the A.B.A. Robertson's first contract with Cincinnati in 1960, for example, was for $33,333 a year lor three years plus an unstated percentage of gate receipts. Havlicek's contracts with Boston also show modest raises until 1969, when he negotiated but did not sign with the Carolina Cougars of the A.B.A. The threat of those negotiations apparently produced a big increase his next contract. In his statement, Havlicek listed his salary as follows: 1962-63, $15,000; 1963-64, $18,000; 1964-65, $21,000; 1965-66, $25,000; 1966-67, $32,000; 1967-68, $50,000; 1968-69, $55,000; 1969-70, $140,000; 1970-71, $140,000; 1970-71, $140,000; 1970-71 $140,000; 1970-71, $140,000; 1971-72, $140,000; 1972-73, $250,000; 1973-74, $250.000; 1974-75, $250,000; 1975-76. $250,000. Havlicek also listed his income from summer camps, endorsements and personal appearances. The largest total for any one year was $14,800 in 1973.

Archie Clark stated that be signed for $11,000 in. 1966-67; bis last contract, for three years beginning in 1972, was for a total of $650,000. Jeff Mullins got $12,000 in 1964-65, and is getting $160,000 this season. Chet Walker got $12,000 in 1962-63, and $180,000 in

Roy L M Boe, the principal owner of the Nets, filed the statement lor his team. He said that he and undisclosed partners bought the franchise for $1,000,000 from the ABC Freight Forwarding Corp. in May, 1969, paying $250,000 on the date of purchase, $50,000 in May, 1971, and $100,000 in each year thereafter.

The new corporation, called Long Island Sports Enter-prises Inc. until it became a limited partnership last Oc-tober, issued 13,441 shares at $1 par value when it was founded. Another $1.500,000 was raised from shareholders as promissory notes or con-vertible debentures.

respectively.

The Scarlet Knights broke to a 60-40 lead with 15.26 to play. And regardless of the shots that Bynum made —he got 34 points—V.M.l. could come no closer than 10 points, at 68-58 with 8:21 left, for the rest of the game.

"They beat us on quickness," Bynum said, "I scored a lot of points, but I probably let up a little on defense know that in the second half I would have to take most of our offense. I don't know that I enjoyed it, but I lt was not enough, not San Oleso had to do what I had to dn."

V.M.I. went home with a record of 22 victories and 10 losses. But at least the Keydets went home with their pride intact.

"Hell. we could have gone out there and died in the second half," said Curt Ken-part, their playmaker. "Rut-gers expected us to die, to lay down and die. But we didn't. I'm proudest of that."
The Keydets could be proud of many things, most ol all in making it to the regional final, a position few persons, if any, expected them to be in as late as last week when they drew Ten-nessee in the opening round. They beat Tennessee and then beat De Paul.

But mostly they could be proud of Bynum, who left Phil Sellers behind for most of the game.

"Will ate Phil Sellers up," Reppart said. "And Phil Sellers is an all-American." Sellers played well, better than be had against Princeton and Connecticut in Rutgers' two orevious N.C.A.A. tournament games. But Bynum at times cleaned him out.

"Phil was in foul trouble, too." Jordan said. "I guess he just needed some hclp." Sellers played most of the second half with four fouls. If anyone on Rutgers did not need help, it was Jordan. He was as devastating agains) V.M.I. as Bynum was against Rutgers. Jordan was all-world in the first half. scoring 15 points, making

Mrs. Raine, a two-time World Cup champion, said:
"This rather proves the point. Neither of these ficalists is a slalom specialist.

Both finished way down in that event World Cup scoring this season. And look at Rosi Mittermaier: She only was eighth." Miss Mittermaier had won three medals at last month's Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria.

It was generally agreed by coaches viewing the day's proceedings on Mont-Sainte-Anne here that the gate placements on the course, with its modest vertical drop of only 359 feet, called only for simple zig-zag maneu-vers. They provided a sharp contrast to the more complicated hairpin and other combination turns usually found on regular slalom layouts. "But eveo had they made it more difficult," said Hank Tauber, the Alpioe director of the United States squad, "it still wouldn't have been satisfactory. As it is now, it's too much of a lottery.

"If this event is to be contioued, it should call for each oation to designate its starters rather than to have the 32 leading overall point winners during a season automatically qualify. Today we had girls from the same teams competing against each other in the first round. The future of this event, as a point-scoring one, ia like today's skies-gray."

Immaculata Quintet Hopes to Gain Title

By LENA WILLIAMS Most coaches wish that they had Cathy Rush's prob-lems.

The bench of Mrs. Rush's No. 2-ranked Immaculata women's basketball team is so strong that she has problems deciding who should start. Last week, with the Sports Mighty Macs clinched the Easter cham-pionship of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, only one of the game's high scorers, Sandy Miller with 20 points, started. The bench supplied 59 of Im-maculata's 88 points.

"Not only do we have a well-balanced team, we also have some great shooters." said Mrs. Rush as she prepared the team for the A.t.A.W. national championships Wednesday through Saturday at Penn State Uni-versity. "I think we have a good shot at regaining our title this year."

Delta State defeated Immaculata last year to win the little that the Macs had held for three years. The teams have met twice this season, and each won at home.

Io defeating Delra State, Immaculata stopped a 51-game winning streak — the longest in women's basketball-held by the Lady Statesmen Irom Cleveland, Miss, Delta State, seeded No. 1 in the nationals, finished the season with a 26-1 won-lost record, Immaculata is 22-2.

The atrength of the Delta team is a 6-foot-3-inch all-America center, Lusia Harris, who averaged 33 poiots and 19 rebounds a game.

"We like to have Lusia on a double lowpost and play to ber," said Margaret Wade, the Delta State coach. "The other girls take up the slack from the outside, and we have 4-foot-11-inch Debbie Brock setting up our plays." Mrs. Rush believes it would be a mistake to try to stop

Miss Harris. her when she gets the ball down low," said Mrs. Rush. "When we played Delta at Immaculata, Lusia was in foul trouble most of the game and eventually fouled out, so that helped us. But we can't expect for her to foul out of every game."

Immaculata will be with out its good-luck charm-tin buckets that fans used as noisemakers - in the na-

"For years, the faos have brought tin buckets to the games," said Marianne Crawford, the captain of the team. But Delta State Objected to them, saying they distracted the players. So we had to get rid of them. We sort o thought of the buckets as inspiration. But that doesn't mean we can't win without

If you're left in limbo between a Mercedes-Benz and the usual Detroit status symbol, Lancia offers you the intelligent alternative.

There are many people who'd love to own a European grand touring car like the Mercedes-Benz. Unfortunately, such cars are incredibly expensive. And therefore most people have to stifle their desires and settle for one ... of Detroit's mass-produced status symbols. Fortunately, there's now an intelligent alternative. A luxury, performance car at a realistic price: It's the new Lancia.

Lancia is probably an unfamiliar name to you. But that's to be expected. Because very few Lancias have ever come to this

But in Europe, Lancia is one of the oldest and most respected car manufacturers. And it's now a division of Fiat.

The new Lancia is the Lancia Beta. And it comes in two body styles: a Coupe and a 4-door Sedan.

It's powered by a highly responsive 4-cylinder, twin overhead cam engine that's extremely reliable and doesn't require constant maintenance. And it's coupled to a 5-speed overdrive transmission. So the engine can run more efficiently with less wear and tear at highway speeds.

Pulled rather than pushed-The Lancia Beta also has front-wheel drive. So instead of being pushed through twists and - tums by the rear wheels, you're pulled through by the front wheels. The advantage of this is better traction in snow or on wet, slippery roads.

What's more, the Lancia Beta comes with rack-and-pinion stee'ring for precise control. 4-wheel independent suspension for a smooth, sure ride.

And powerassisted disc brakes on all wheels for well controlled, straight stops-even in panic situations. Unhumed European craftsmanship.

The inside of the Lancia Beta is equally impressive. The front bucket seats are fully reclining, and in the Coupe, are upholstered in real leather. There's also an adjustable steering column, an electronic clock, and thick, plush carpeting. And since the engine is mounted sideways, there's plenty of room for passengers and their

The big question.

How much does the Lancia Beta cost? A lot less than many people assume. The base price of the Coupe is $7,510°. And the 4-door Sedan is substantially less.

So now that the financial barner between you and a European grand touring car has been removed, we suggest you visit your nearest Lancia dealer and arrange for a test drive.

We think you'll agree that the new Lancia Beta is the intelligent Garden will allot only four dates to next year's N.I.T. and may insist that it has a say in the selection of the field.

Mike Burke, president of the Garden, may bave hinted at that on Friday. After Ken-tocky and Charlotte bad rached the final on last-aecond victories, he said: "College basketball fans who come to the Garden denied themselves a terrific ahow. As partners in the N.I.T., we would like to have some voice in the team selection. But on balaoce we can't fault tha committee's selec-tion this year." Privately, there has been criticism of the N.I.T. selection committee is dominated by Pete Carlesimo of Fordham and Ken Norton of Manhattao. Both have been ac-cused of making decisioos without the knowledge of other members. One committee member said he learned the N.I.T. field had bean in-creased from eight to 12

"I think the N.I.T. field was a good ooe," said Jim Appell, the Garden executive vice president who had originally favored an eight-team tournament and four playing dates, "but I'm oot sure the teams here have a history of drawing patrons. My job is to fill aeats and look for college baskethall teams who are known to the sports fans and ara exciting. "Before North Carolina at Charlotte came hera, they were unknown to the New fore had an unknown draw-

There are many reasons teams that fail to make the N.C.A.A. tournament want the N.I.T. around. In the case of North Carolina at Charlotte, playing in New York was an open door to national fame, something the school'a program badly oeeded.
"It's unbelievable to me the things we've gottee out of playing bere," said Lee Rose, the first-season Charlotte coach. "You can't evaluate it io money or anything what our beating North Carolina State meant to us. Be-fore we cama here, Mayor John Belk of Charlotte set up a $50,000 endowment fund. It was the first ooe the school's athletic program

After Louisville was invited to the N.I.T., Denny Crum, tha Cardinal's coach, expressed a feeling many coaches have about the N.I.T.

"Next year we're going to be a contender for the N.C.A.A. crown," said Crum.

"This N.I.T. is a good start toward next vest."
When Joa Hall, the Ken tucky coach, was told that be may be going home with little or oo mooey, he said, "It'a not sound for us to come bere and break even. But the opportunity to play here is very meaningful for us. I don't think tha N.I.T. can continue unless it's prof-

NEW ORLEANS, March 20 (AP) — Greentree Stable's Johnny Appleseed came from off the pace and won the $100.000 Louisiana Derby today by a neck at the Fair Grounds race track. Glassy Dip was second in the stretch drive and Gay Jitter-bug third, seven lengths back. The victory was worth $61,000 to the 3-year-old son of Stage Door Johnny, a Bel-mont Stakes winner.

Marcos Castanedas kept his mount far back in the fleld of 14 3-year-olds as Princely Game and Glassy Dip led through the first turn. But Castanedas saw running room on the rail going into the third turn and moved Johnny Appleseed into a challenging position at the bead of the stretch.

The last eighth of a mile was a two-horse race be-tween Johnny Appleseed and Glassy Dip.

Johnny Appleseed covered the 1½ miles in 1:49 4/5, one second off the track record beld by Just About and Rio Bravo. The winner, who went off at 11-1 returned $10.49, $8.40 and $4 on $2

The British veterinarian, who annually checks Queeo Elizabeth's Labrador retrievers, was addressing a seminar conducted by Gaines Dog Re-search Center last Sunday io Harrisburg, Pa., for more than 700 breeders. "I blame man for developing breeds with ridiculous eye shapes — the protruding eye of the Pekingses and pug. the too small eye of the chow chow, the diamond-shape of the St. Bernard, bloodhound and basset."

He divided progressive retinal atrophy, which concerns so many breeders, into two categories -general, due to a recessive geoe, and ceotral, from a dominant gene. "We must not breed from a dog or bitch, or any of their offspring, with P.R.A., for they are carriers," he warned. trolled and even eradicated." When asked whether the hair over the eyes of the Old English sheepdogs has any effect, he responded, "It just stops them from seeing properly. Unless the Tibetan ter-rier and bearded collies breeders are careful, they are going to run into the same problem."

Dr. Sten-Erik Olsson of Stockholm, a physician and veterinarian, who was pro-fessor of comparative orthopedics at Cornell from 1965 to 1968, discussed osteochon-drosis, a cartilage disease, which he said was particularly prevalent io the big dogs, such as the St. Bernard. "We want big dogs to grow too quickly," he warned. They should be kept on a restricted diet. The amount of food should be beid down until the animal is fully grown and mature. It's better to keep the pups on the light

He said there was a frequent incidence of elbow dysplasia among goldeo retrievers and Labradors and it was bereditary trait, "Osteochoodrosis is a degenerative joint disease. We can treat the joints surgically. It's difficult with the elbow and the knee prognosis is poor, oo matter what we do."

The outritional management of the growing dog was the subject for Dr. Francis Kalifelz of Cornell, who said overfeeding frequently caused more problems than underfeeding, that a fat puppy or baby waso't necessarily a healthy one. William Campbell of Sun Valley, Calif., .discussed caoine behavior problems

There was much discontent at Harrisburg. Group judging was in the evening and the State Farm Show Building was so cold, fanciers were wearing coats. It was 10:22, wheo John Cramer pointed to the Sealyham terrier, Ch. Roderick of Jenmist, the English import owned by Michael Weissman, the Yooers lawyer, and his mother, as best of the 2,967 dogs. With the lateness of the hour, it meant exhibitors had to drive almost all oight to reach the Tidewater show in

There was a patriotic into the ring until last June," theme yesterday at the Bronx County Kennel Club's 54th show. The catalogs bad red, white and blue covers and the judges and committee members wore red, white and blue badges. All the bestof-breed winners received Unde Sam banks and the judges came from the original 13 colonies. Arline Thompson, the show chairman, and Debbie Lynn Bowden, the club president, wore red, white and blue outfits.

The show, held in the Kingsbridge Armqry, jampacked with military vehicles, 105-mm. and 8-inch howitzers, drew an eotry of 1,639.

A 4-year-old Pekingese, Cr. Yank Kee Bernard took best-in-show honors. The dog owned by Mrs. Waler M. Jef-fords and Michael Wolf was put up by Frank Landgraf. Bernard took the toy group at Westminster, the oational specialty and the top award at Elm City prior to yesterday's triumph.

Bronx always has been an obedience-minded club, there were 112 of the educated set. The winner of the Utility Class was a black standard poodle, Fabulous Mark of Belle Glen U. D., owned by Vija Lapins and John Kucera of Riverside, Conn.

The 5-year-old has made a strong comeback since he fractured a leg 14 mooths ago. "I couldn't get Mark said Miss Lapins, "Even so five times he was top scoring dog io trials last year.

Yesterday be had a 198, losing 2 points because he sat slightly crooked. Obedience devotees will remember Mark's dam. Fabulous Guinevere, C.D., who scored a 200 three years ago at Suffolk. The chances of getting a per-fect score are 1,500-1. Jean McCarthy and her 14-of the boats have aluminum hulls, fitting out can mean anything from a fresh coat of bottom paint, or coating, to a new bottom. To circumvent the cost of new-boat construction and still remaio competitive on the ocean racing circuit, many boat owners choose iostead remodeling, with most changes occurring in the stern undersection, according to Chuck Sadler, building

Mesnwhile, at yards handling small boats-those ranging up to 25 feet or so-there is a new look, too. Elevated storage racks, marine elevators, forklift trucks. It's a whole new ball game, in which boats are stored indoors in clevated slots the year round, and all it takes to go boatiog is a call ahead to the yard man who can launch the boat in five minutes. Most of Barbegat's sailors have at one time or another come into contact with Dave Beaton, For years he specialized in building smaller versions of the famed Barnegat sneakbox. The boat made perfect training fleets for the yacht clubs that ring the bay. Beginning skippers are hard on boats and it was natural for the boys and girls to take their boat problems hack to the builder. As the years passed the kids grew up, bought larger boats and who else would they turn to for assistance than their old mentor. As the old-time boatyards disappeared and oew marinas became marvels of efficiency with prices to match. Beaton's remaioed refreshingly the same. Anyone who bought a character boat or eveo a clunker boat with rebuilding in mind brought it to Beaton's where the casual air favored loaning of tools, free advice and-if you could get him to do itmaster repairs. The teen-ager that roared out of Beaton's yard in a cloud of dust. The varnish was just sticky enough so that turpentine couldn't soften it yet the dust could stick to it.

> Refinishing spars with hose instead of e paint brush suited me fine, all things considered. Not for world cruisers probably. It's tough to get an alumioum spar repaired in out-island Samoa. But my cathoat would never find herself there. And she was a better boat thanks to the material. Heavy wood spars in the "eyes" of the old cats caused them to plunge dangerously into seas my little beauty bobbed over. The thought forced its way into my mind as to the way modern "miracle" materials have changed things, boatmen oever had it so good. Boating's good

One bright morning in August of 1972, our boat-of-themoment with family of five aboard was tied up in Falmouth Harbor in Massachusetts waiting for the slack tide at Woods Hole. As we occupied ourselves with deck - swabbing, stopped alongside with the usual friendly questions. We told them the boat was a Columbia 36, and that we

We pointed out that since sailhoats are slow, chartering allows us to pick any area. "We're not tied down to within 200 miles of the same dock year after year," we concluded in nur wisdom.

It was all very sensible, and chartering had kept us happy for a few lovely years, but we reckoned without the seductiveness of the liveaboard boat. To people who love the water, it promises the best of all possible worlds: It's a summer home that moves. What could be more attractive to the solid suburbanite, in the end, than outright ownership of a vagabond symbol?

Previous charters bad included a 30-footer for a week in February in the Virgin Islands. Living aboard had heen somewhat crowded, but the charm and freedom of sailing from island to island, having botel, sport and transportation all in one, was pure

But the would-be captain was spend-ing most of his week in Denver, our older boy was a college student and work-ing for the summer, and our danghter, 16. who had worked miracles in cooking and baking on our cruises, was busy with her own friends and interests. The intoxicating task of scouting fell to Carl, I3, and me. Most salesmen took a mother and young son seriously, but a few just waved us in the direction of the boats and stayed at their desks. Undaunted and undampened, we climbed scores of ladders in two-and-a-balf months. Carl collected and guarded all the brochures and made his own exhaustive study. In our endless family discussions, he was a source of instant information on the beam, draft, keel and ruddertype, and cabin arrangements of any model. All these months, e centercockpit Allied 36 was .a stone's throw from our old slip in Stamford. When we found her the whole matter took 24 hours. It was shown to the usual two of us oo Friday and we bought it on Saturday. As with bouse-hunting, it was more boat than we had been looking for, but the center cockpit reminded us of models we had chartered, and we felt

Now all we had to worry about was a dingby with engine, some more electronic equipment, and the time to saill I kept myself bappy late that summer just putting things aboard for a few overnights, and we promised ourselves Maine the next year.

It's the Little Things That Count in Boating, Too

When Dr. Alan J. Wasserman of Manhaltan has time on his hands, he tinkers with his yacht. It is a graceful alive.

When the weathers is pleasant, he eaves his Central Park West apartment and takes ber for a lazy cruise or perhans a lazy cruise, or perhaps to race with his other yachting friends.

But io all the time the bearded, young dentist has spent with his creation, he has never set foot on its deck, for Dr. Wasserman's yacht, the Coccinelle, is only 72 inches long and weighs 27 pounds.

But to Dr. Wasserman and the 50 or so other members the Central Park, Model Yacht Club, that makes no difference.

On nearly every pleasant weekend and Wednesday evening between April and November-and some not-sopleasant days as well—the club members go forth to Conservatory Lake, north of 72d Street near Fifth Avenue in Central Patk. At times the races will be informal; others, the competition is fierce "When you're out there, it's as intense as racing on a full-size boat," Dr. Wasserman said as he prepared his boat for competition one weekend. "You really con-ing radio control. "I am get-ting too old to chase them around," he explained.

The radio control allows the skipper to stand on shore and adjust the rudder and the trim of the sail of his ship, using a device that re-sembles a medium-size tran-sistor radio. The concept has long been used io model airplanes but is relatively new to model yachting. Its rise in popularity three years ago is credited by many with the renewed interest in the model yacht club, which was founded in 1916, for it makes

Then he turned to a spectator and whispered, in con-spiratorial tones: "Ardith is an industrial engineer, but none of them know that." The Bumper, however, failed

Most of the members of the club have built their yachts themselves, at an average cost of about $150, then added radio control, which rung about $200. After the initial investment, there is very little additional cost. Except, of course, for the tinkering. "In the winter you're building a new boat. Dr. Wasserman said, "or if you're not building, you're modifying what you have Everything's a concoctioo; if you're not doing anything, you sit down and make a new fitting for the boat—you want a better boat each are those who love this material. And no one can argue that wooden ressels have not served well down the ages, I cannot quarrel with those who love wood's beauty, I have spent many a happy hour perfumed by the glorious scent of a cedar sneakbox. Yet look at this material and worn. The boat's side was a wreck. I was shaking my head at the destruction when a stranger strolled by. "Pretty bad," he said. "But have you seen the dock!"

I couldn't believe my eyes. The bow had chewed completely through a giantstringer. The decking looked like a giant bitc had been taken out of it. The side of the boat had worn its way half through a piling and to make it worse there was a huge massive steel ring bolt in it. I estimated the fiberglass hull absorbed three to five times the punishment a similar wooden vessel could have withstood. And, of course, paired in hours and back overboard. We should not have been racing, and we should have been reefed. My catboat was rounding the libbing mark. The sail did not libe because the fiberglass boat was re-

to work it for starters. And and came upon a fiberglass of air estimated by an experi-if we could somehow re-create those artisans of old, the lamination was frayed in a powerboat as over 40 and longevity cannot have niles an hour. On the port tack, I rounded into another cutboat on the starboard tack, both boats completely out of control and the two boats collided at hull speed— seven or eight miles per bour. I remember seeing the bow smash into the other cat's .side, then dug myself a fox-hole and waited until the bombing stopped. The crash was heard all over the river. The incredible thing is that damage to either boat could only be described as superfi-cial. If they had been wood both would have been sunk.

Engines are other examples of improvement. The Chrys-ler Crown in my 1948 Elco pulled some 120 horsepower out of about 700 pounds of iron. Today I would expect twice that horsepower from a cooveotional inboard of similar poundage. As I recall Everything today is conspiring against wood boats—lack of those skillful enough

These two things happened to me. I was touring marinas lack of those skillful enough after a vicious fall storm I was bit by a new slant live today. The steadfast upit took 11 quarts of oil to change the oil versus some escaped any interested boat-ing eye. The giant, oew 200 horsepower outboard weighs a mere 331 pounds. The new 175 horsepower Mercury "Black Max" (which could have been rated anywhere have been rated anywhere up to 270 horsepower, according to Merc engineers). horsepower for horsepower, uses less gas than the 150. More horsepower out of less weight at greater economy has been typical of the modern outboard's upward climb. And while size soared,

There is no great expense involved in racing yachts when it's done in Central Park.

I am no great advocate of speed on the water but whether I like it or not sail-ing ocean racers with 30-foot water lines regularly plane at sailing speeds equal to the giant schooner and clip-pers of old. Little sailing catamarans are so hot that one instruction manual actually admonishes: "Warning, this boat can accelerate so quickly that those aboard noise dropped.

Don't get me wrong. I am no advocate of newness for its own sake. As a matter of fact, I'm highly skeptical of new boating materials.

How about cost? The cost of boats and boating has never been higher. True. But a counter claim can be fielded. There are inexpensive boats on the market today. there are expensive ones. But this has always been so. Let me quote from a grand book about the "Old Days", Edwin Schoettle's Sailing Craft published in 1927. In 1890 the average cost of a 30-foot catboat was about $1,000 to $1,200. Boats like this dominated the sporting sceoe along the mid-Atlantic coast. Then a Phil-adelphia man commissioned Nathaniel Herreshoff to design a cathoat of this size and build it in his famous yard. The Wizard of Bristol did so. Instead of the customary price the Philadelphia man paid $5,000 for his boat. Yet so advanced and successful was the vessel that it literally dominated racing for an era "The Wanda." reports Schoettle, "more or less dis-continued racing on Long Is-land Sound." The other boats were obsolete overnight. When another similar Herresboff cat reached the Jersey shore, "she so outclassed al of the existing boats that in one or two seasons old time rivalries were a thing of the past and to date have not and never will be re-stored." Let those who are predicting the demise of ocean sailboat racing chew on that one. Fortunately Mr. Schoettle was better at boats rewards of boating - the smell of the salt sea, the way of a ship, the beauty of the water and its many moods. Add to these timeless rewards, matchless modern materials and anyone who pines for vestervear needs his head examined

The Case of the Missing 20-Foot Cabin Cruiser: The Garage Held the Ansv

By ARTHUR A. WITKIN

What do you do if your boat is stolen, and what are your chances of recovering

My story, which has a happy ending, began when we drove up to our one-third acre in the mountains near Port Jervis, N.Y.

Our cottage and trees and shrubs looked as pleasant as before, but something was missing, and a moment later I realized our 20-foot cahin cruiser was gone. Only a hruised spot on the tree to which it had been chained was left.

As we arrived on that May 3, we were planning to open the cottage for the season, and I was already savoring the thought of the welcome chores that would take my mind off the preceding week's pressures geoarated hy teaching industrial psy-chology at Queens College geoarated and also consulting with private clieots.

In a reasonably short time following my call to Middletown State Police Barracks, Trooper G. W. Elston appeared. In the weeks that followed, I would test his patience many times — as only a frantic but imaginative stolen cruiser victim can —in bombarding him with queries and suggestions. An example: I nagged him into talking to the regional dis-tributor for Johnson Motors on the chance that the thief would purchase a propeller huh nut to replace the cracked one I had removed. and without which the motor could not propel. The company reported it was impossible to trace such a purchase. Elstoo came through all such trials with top grades.

To be sure, however, nel-ther Investigator (as he is officially titled) Elston nor I had much hope of ever seeing the boat again. The wise-heads solemnly proclaimed that it was probably already in South America, or at least,

I had no intention, as you see, of sitting back and waiting for the State Police to recover the boat, an unlikely

Agent Denty did suggest that we verify that the routine State Police report of this theft to the National Crime Information Center (N.C.I.C.) had occurred. He called back to say, it had not! My immediate and irate letter to the Superintendent of State Police brought a quick apology and remedy. seems that some clerk had failed to properly use the communications equipment; and some computer expert, it would seem, had failed to build into the system a way of discovering that the keys being pushed in N.Y. State were not registering anything in Washing-

So far as the F.B.L is conceroed, I eventually received a written explanation saying that a stolen boat and trailer, if valued under $5,000, and "self-propelled" on land, is not a Faderal crime. It does not under those circumstances fall within either Title 18, United States Code, Section 2312 (Interstate Transportation of Stolen Mo18 (USC) Section 2311 (Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property).

My final eccounter with the Federal government on this matter involved my former Assemblyman, until re-cently the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York. Recognizing that regardless of legal limitations on the F.B.L. a well-placed word from the oumber one Federal law enforcement person hereabouts might produce a miracle, I wrote to-Paul Curran, reminding him that not only was I a former constituent when he represented Stuyvesant Town in the New York Assembly, but I had only recently nodded to him on the commuter train from Westchester (and he nodded back!). My certified letter weot unanswered, (I should add this footnote: My congressman's office did call the F.B.I. to express interest and concern.)

Now to one of the hright end heartening acts of this drama—this one in the private sector. My boat insurance took me to one Ron

Johnson, an independent adjuster, in nearby. White Plains. This tinusual man specializes in recovering stolen about trying to spot them himself. He explained that boats, representing many different insurance companies. On weekends, he cruises my loss was not large enough to warrant a special circular by itself. Mr. Johnson elerts boat dealers, marinas, and aervice facilities in New York and nearby-states by sending out a notice of boat thefts.

I certainly wasn't in the mood to wait. Ron referred me to his printer and list company in the Bronx. I promptly got Boyds City Dis-patch Co. to print up and mail 1,000 circulars to boat facilities in New York, Con-

AWARD WINNER: Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., with Betty Ford at the Waldorf yesterday. Mrs. Ford presented Miss Hamili, who won Olympic and World Cup gold medals, with the Women's National Republican Club's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year Award. Miss Hamill will be bonored today in Greenwich, Conn.

Cosmos Follow Sun to Coast To Prepare for Their Season

When it comes to sunshine, New York cannot compete with San Diego, at least not these days. So the Coswinner, picked San Diego over New York to complete their preseason train-ing. "I'd like to get the lads outdoors," Keo Furphy, the new coach of the Cosmos, said the other day.

The weather was not helpful at all and last Tuesday's storm convinced Furphy to take his team to San Diego a week before its game against the Jaws. The Cosmos will take on the Jaws Wednesday and then play six other exhibition games on a tour that

The New York final of the United States Challenge Cup will be played this afternoon at Metropolitan Oval in Maspeth, Queens, with Inter-Giuliana facing Doxa at 3 o'clock. Both teams are members of the German-American Soccer League, whose clubs have dominated this competition in recent years.

Two other German-American League teams will meet at Philadelphia in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania final of the Challenge Cup. also known as the Sir Thomas Dewar trophy. In that game, Elizabeth, N.J., will take on the Philadelphia Ukrainian

The semifinalists of the European, Cup Winners and U.E.F.A. Cups were determined last week as each of the three competitions completed the quarterfinal round. In the European Cup, the the semifinalists are Real Madrid, Bayern Munich, Saint Etienne of France and Eindboven of the Netherlands.

West Ham United of England, Anderlecht of Belgium, Zwickeu of East Germany and Eintracht of West Germany are the semifinalists in Cup Winners Cup. In the U.E.F.A. Cup, the semifinal-ists are Liverpool, England, Burges. Belgium, Hamburg, West Germany, and Barcelona. Spain.

While the Cosmos crossed the country to complete their training, the Toronto Metros went all the way to Australia and the Hartford Bicenteo-nials went to West Germany. The Metros will play 10 games in Australia and will return after a game in Melourne oo April 7.

The Bicentennials will spend a month in West Germany, playing numerous exhibition games. The Bics' recent big-gest signing was Bobby Thomson, a former member of England's national team.

That evening the rain became a deluge and hy mid-morning of the following day low-lying fields were awash with water the sodden earth could no longer ab-

That was the day Culler and I bad set aside to fish for the stripers of the Water with Bobby Kennedy of Camden.

Kennedy and other anglers had, Culler and I learned, taken many bass the previous two weeks in the stretch of the river between the Wateree Lake Dam and Route with the fish averaging close to eight pounds and ranging up to 16.

But, said Kennedy, whoo we called him in the morning, the outlook was now somewhat dismat. The river had risen more than five feet and was muddy

"It is supposed to stop raining by noon, so let's go out about 2," he said. The rain stopped at noon and by 2:30 the skies had

For three hours we probed the murky, turbulent, debrisladen Wateree with bucktail figs, or anchored Kennedy's the fishing.

"Two days ago we could have filled the boat in this spot," said Bobhy at one point where we were casting to a jumble of rocks lying just below the rushing water. "When the water is low and clear you can have great fun with the stripers. They'll hit popping plugs right on the surface. And even when it's high you can take them in the eddies along the hanks, but when it's high and muddy it's almost useless to try, Kennedy said.

Any thoughts we might bave bad of lingering on into darkness were dispelled by a demonic wind that suddenly began to howl along the broad river, sending a bald wheeling downwind. The next day's state newspaper de-scribed the wind as tornado-

Some biologists question whether the landlocked stripers of the Santee-Cooper had not adapted to carrying out their full life cycle in fresh water prior to the impoundment, but whatveer the truth the fish are able to spawn

Most economy cars make you economize in areas where you don't want to cut corners. Areas like comfort. Or safety engineering. Or quality. We have an alternative. An automobile that solves your gasoline problems once and for all, but doesn't compromise other essentials in the process. What is it? The Mercedes-Benz 240 Diesel. A car that uses economical Diesel fuet instead of gasoline. A car that burns each gallon of its fuel more completely than any gasoline engine. A car that never needs a conventional tune-up. But outstanding running economy is just part of the story. The 240D has all of the safety design and engineering advancements that have made Mercedes-Benz automobiles a standard for the automotive world. On top of that, it has ample room for five adults and their luggage. Sound too good to be true? See the 240D for yourselt. Test drive it. Experience an automobile whose time has come.

We have an automobile that saves like an economy car and drives like a Mercedes-Benz.

Experience it.

The first thing you ive to do to get a lot of car for not a lot of money is

The 1976 Fiat 131 Sedan. 4,431:

You can't believe that a car costing $4,500 could come with rack-and-pinion ering, a five-speed gear box, front-wheel disc brakes, radial tires, undercoating, ted windows, door-to-door carpeting, a rear window defroster, an adjustable : ering wheel, and complete rustproofing? Plus the room of much larger cars? and the performance of much more expensive ones?

A. Then before you spend your money on any car, you'd better test drive a Because not only is it possible, but all those things come on a 131 with a sice of either two doors or four

A lot of car. Not a lot of money.

Plus: a roof that lets the sun shine in. Michelin steel-belted radial tires. Four-wheel independent suspension for a smooth ride and impeccable handling. And four-wheel power-assisted disc brakes for quick, steady stops.

But that's not all. We also give you a tachometer. An electric clock with a sweep second hand. Fully reclining seats. A heated rear window for frosty mornings. And much more.

So if you're looking for a car with a whole new set of standards, come in and see the new Feugeot 504 SL. It's a change for the better.

146 "commuters" (and their planes) are r airline standards, but they're growing.

Aerial Lifeline to the Hinterlands

By ROBERT W. PETERSON

Ten years ago, a businesaman arrived at the airport outside a Texas town and checked in his rental car with a woman at the airline counter. She sold him his plane ticket, too, then took his baggage and stepped outside. A moment later, she appeared again at the wheel of a tank truck; he watched as she fueled the small plane on the runway and loaded his baggage aboard. When she stepped back inside the terminal, the shaken businessman said, "If you're the pilot, too, I'm not going."

her husband. Such mom-and-pop operations were standard when the "commuter" airlines, as they're known in the aviation trade, had their start. They've come a distance since—in size, numbers and profitability-but they're still a long way from the world of Pan Am. What commuters do offer, though, is the only scheduled air passenger service to more than 200 small cities, plus connections to 200 other airports served by tha major airlines. Theirs is a world of small planes, camaraderie between crew and passengers, and the down-home friendliness of a country store. The airline industry, like Gaul, is

She wasn't, and be did. The pilot was divided into three major parts. First is to Safeway. Last year the comamong unequals are the trunk carriers, United, T.W.A., American and the like, reeking glamor and status. Slick fourcolor ads in unearthly tints, hinting of romance and adventure in Miami, Los Angeles, Paris. Seventy-seven-yard long Boeing 747's concealing the delights of glossy stewardesses, first-run movies, champagne. Below the trunks are the regional, or local service, airlines: Allegheny, Piedmont, Southern and six others, with ports of call like Albany, Madison and

Born in the mid-1930's, the commuter airline phenomenon burgeoned in the early 60's when regional airlinea began deserting smaller cities in droves. Following aviation's normal evolutionary maxim (bigger and faster is better), the regionala bonght jets seating upward of 50 passengers that could not be flown economically into a small town for six or seven passengers three times a day. Primarily for this reason. the regional airlines have pulled out of

This was especially true on journeys to places he had visited in the distant past: in his childhood, say, or on his honeymoon. Often he would dispense with directions entirely on these trips, for he seemed to believe that all the regions he had traveled in his youth were indelibly mapped out in bia memory, or should have been, and all he needed were a faw old, familiar landmarks to spark his recollection. That few, if any, of these laudmarks (barns, bait shops, wrought iron gates) could have aurvived the intervening years of Depression, war, land boom and highway expansion never seemed to faze him.

There may have been some faint, leftnyer frontier-ethic involved in all this, a conviction that a man was not a man unless he could find his way hy tasting the moss on trees or something. Whatever it was, it was misguided, and misguided us through cumulative thousands of unnecessary miles. On one particular trip we were required to pass through Blue Island, Ill., a rank and sullen burg on the outskirts of Chicago. Biue Island's town ball stood at the intersection of fwo main roads, and we spent an entire morning passing it from different directions. At first my father claimed that the town boasted more than one town hall, but as we grew familiar with Blue Island, he was forced to abandon this thesis. After a third jog past the town hall my father took a hard left and announced, "We're on our way. out of here at last," but, in a few minutes we passed it again, and it was well after noon before, by following a caravan of church-chartered huses, we finally got through.

It was my mother's function on family outines to sit up front and hold the map, and this she would do, chewing nervously on the inside of her cheek and glancing at the speedometer from time to time (as wrong turn compounded wrong turn my father tended to step on the gas a little heavily). He made token inquiries of her in her capacity as navigator, but followed her replies with, "Are you damn sure?" or "That can't be right." And when my mother offered to give him Rand McNally verification of her replies, he would shake his head with aatonishment and exclaim, "How can you expect me to look at the map while I'm driv-

Life is too short not to come to the finest resort in America.

This summer, Sea Pines at Hilton Head, the finest resort in America, can cost only $16*a day, per person. This could be your family's week:

SUNDAY

Sea Pines is easy to get to, by air or car. It's just under an hour's drive from Savannah, Georgia.

Drop your bags and head for the beach. In the 1000 miles of shoreline between New York and Miami, there are few beaches as spectacular as Sea Pines. It is four and one half miles long and, at some points, 600 feet wide. The sun is warm and gentle. The surf is low and light, perfect for kids. The sand is firm enough for bike riding and strolling. The air is delightful. Take a tour. Now that you're relaxed, you'll want to learn something about the 5000 acres of resort where you'll spend this week. You'll notice that the architecture blends well with the live oak and loblolly pine. Take a stroll in Harbour Town. Look in the windows of Harbour Town's exquisite little shops. Check out the art exhibits. Sit for a while at the gazebo and sip a sangna. Then climb to the op of Harbour Town's 90-foot lighthouse for a sunset view of Daufuskie Island "Gullah" is still spoken; it's a curious blend of 18th-century English and French).

Dinner at Café Calibogue. Café Calibogue (pronounced Kala-bo-gee) is right by the vacht basin in Harbour Town. Ask for a table near the window so you can see the yachts moving in and out. Then ask for Seafood Gumbo...it's a specialty and it's really superb.

MONDAY

Play golf. There are four Sea Pines golf courses plus several other island courses, available for guest play.

are available and required for starts before 2:00 p.m. The 15th green of The Ocean Course may be the most photographed golf hole on the East Coast, just as the 18th green of courses are $12. Golf carts

Links may be the most televised. It is here that the Heritage Classic is played every spring. Arnold Palmer won the first Classic.

What to do for the kids. There's a complete Youth Recreation Program from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day. It's like a day camp for kids from two to fourteen. It's run by experienced college students and there are special programs for kids interested in golf and/or tennis. It's $30 a week per child, with a maximum of $90 a week for all the kids in the family. Compare this to the cost of leaving the kids with baby-sitters back home.

Baby-sitters. There's a list of baby-sitters at Sea Pines. Ask for it when you check in. Eat Veal Oscar surrounded by original Audubon prints. Tonight, try dinner at the Hilton Head Inn's Audubon Room. Ask for the Veal Oscar; it's sautéed veal with crab meat, asparagus and hollandaise.

On the walls of the room hangs one of the largest private collections of Audubon prints in the United States. The eye must feast, too.

30,000 Yankees came here for a visit in 1862. You might want to visit Old Fort Mitchel after breakfast. Near here, was the largest amphibious invasion accomplished prior to World War II. There's nearly as much history to soak up around Hilton Head Island as there is sun.

"...the goodliest, best and fruitfullest ile ever was seen." Captain William Hilton, describing his island in 1663..

Tennis. Sea Pines has two Racquet Clubs and 39 perfectly maintained tennis courts. Thirty of them are granular, fast-dry courts and the remainder are all-weather, some lighted for night play.

You'll always find a good game at Sea Pines. Let the pros help you find a partner or an opponent. You can rent a ball machine to warm up. Or take an hour or so of instruction from John Baker. He's a master instructor.

"More people have seen more tennis played here than at any other resort in the world." Stan Smith, Touring Pro, referring to TV coverage of Sea Pines tournaments.

Have a quiet dinner at home. Tonight, why not have a quiet dinner in your own villa. You've got everything you need-a kitchen with a dishwasher, china, flatware and a dining area. It's a nice way to relax

WEDNESDAY

Spend the day at the beach, snoozing over a good book.

Ride a horse on the beach. Drive out to Seabrook Stables and get a horse. Then go for a canter on the beach. What a wonderful way to get a tan. Or, if you enjoy trails and field jumps, go to Lawton Field Stables. There are trail rides for adults, teens and kids over seven. If you've never been on a horse before, we'll teach you to ride on a nice, gentle mare.

A kid and a fish-pole. Take the kids out to Lake Joe, a 15-acre, freshwater fishing cane pole, some line, some bait and watch their faces when they catch their first bass.

Learn to sail. Take beginning or advanced courses in sailing or cruising at former Olympic sailor Steve Colgate's, Offshore

Try fresh Wahoo at Land's End Tavern.

Have dinner at Land's End Tavern tonight. It's one of those finger-lickin' seafood spots-lots of clams and charm. And you can order fish caught fresh that day, like dolphin, snapper...even shark.

THURSDAY

Bird-watching. The local Audubon Society "Life List" has identified more than 260 species of birds on the Island. You'll spot 30 to 40 in two hours if you're alert. There are regular field trips and more ibises and great blue herons than you can imagine. Take a camera. Fish catching. Hilton Head Sbe-Crab Soup. Visit the Plantation Club Dining Room...it's the most elegant dining room at Sea Pines. Don't miss the She-Crab Soup; it's a delicate blend of leeks, potatoes, cream and crab roe from a lady crab. Don't miss the dinner-dancing either.

FRIDAY

Child's play: A three-story tree house and other toys. There are some of the most creative playgrounds in the world at Sea Pines.

Io regard to the story on gangster John Dillinger, "Mayhe I'll Learn Someday, Dad, You Can't Win in This Game" (Travel Section, March 7), how about a Victims' Museum for those Dillinger gunned down. It would be more colorful . and crowded.

Unchipped gravestones, failed rabbits' feet, hullets removed from various parts of bodies; detailed, lifelike wax figures of victims' children, seldom-published photographs of victims' wives sobbing at the funerals. MUNICE To the Editor:

Craig Whitney's "What's Doing in Munich" (Travel Section, Feb. 15) was an excellent roundup, but it contained a slight error which might concern music lovers. Mr. Whitney states that the program for the Munich Opera Festival won't be set until May. Just two weeks ago, I received in the mail complete program of the Munich Opera Festivals which will take place between July 10 and Aug. 2. Incidentally, the material, sent upon my request, was mailed by the German Tourist Office (Fremdenverkehrsemt), Rindermarkt 5, 8 Munich. (Printed in German.) The same office issues a brochure describing hus tours into the upper-Bavarian Alpine region to such places as Hohenschwangau, Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Mittenwald, Berchtesgaden,

Notes: Domesticating The U.S.A. Rail Pass

By JOHN BRANNON ALBRIGHT

On the first of this month, Amtrak, the National Passenger Railroad Corporation, began offering Its U.S.A. Rail pass to Americans. Previously the pass, which entitles the holder to unlimited train travel for 14, 21 or 30 days, had been available to foreigners only. Since Americans became eligible, about 450 of the passes have been sold every day, and Amtrak is now in the process of deciding whether United States citi-zens should be allowed to buy them beyond the present cut-off date of May 15. The passes will continue to be offered to foreigners through Dec. 31. The U.S.A. Rail pass program was extended to Americans, according to an Amtrak spokesman, as a marketing tool designed to encourage more off-season travel. "We think," he went on to say, "that this is particularly important this spring before the expected crunch develops during the peak summer months of the Bicentennial." He implied that the passes, no matter how well received, would not be offered to Americans, at least in their present form, during July and August, traditionally the months of heaviest train patronage. He suggested, however, that they might be made available to Americans at a higher price during the summer and reinstituted at a lower price again after Labor Day. The 14-day pass oow costs $150, the 21-day pass $200 and the 30 day pass $250. The price to foreigners will remain unchanged no matter how the passes are restructured for Americans, Amtrak says.

Although the deadline for Americans buying the U.S.A. Rail pass in its current form is May 15, one need not begin one's rail journey until 15 days after purchase date. Therefore, a person who huys a 30-day pass on May 15 and waits until May 30 to use it can still be riding as late as June 28.

With a U.S.A. Rail pass, a traveler can ride anywhere on the 26,000-mile Amtrak system and the 1,000-mile system of the Southern Railroad, which joined the pass plan last Mooday. The pass provides for a coach seat; by paying the difference between coach fare and first-class or Metroliner fare a holder can avail bimself of the higherpriced accommodations, Children 2 through 11 years of age are charged half price for both pass and first-class and Metroliner supplements.

As one example of the savings possi-

14-day pass could travel almost 8,000 miles—from New York to Chicago to Seattle to Los Angeles to New Orleans and back to New York—and save $256, the regular coach fare being $406. A round trip between New York and Los Angeles would cost 5304, a saving of $154 with a 14-day pass.

The U.S.A. Rail pass is patterned on Eurailpass, which since 1959 has been offered by the rail systems of 13 Western European countries. Last year a record 155,000 Eurailpasses were sold to North Americans. The U.S.A. Rall pass differs from Eurailpass in two respects: It is not, as already noted, a first-class pass, and it cannot be used as a ticket. Unless seat reservations are required, a Eurailpass holder mereiy boards a train at will and presents his pass to a conductor. The holder of a U.S.A. Rail pass has to present the pass to an Amtrak ticket window or to a travel agent and receive coupons good for specific segments of a trip. An Amtrak spokesman said the coupon-issuing procedure was necessary for accounting purposes. Overall, Amtrak is showing about a 4 percent gain in passengers compared to last year. In the month of January 1.29-million passengers rode the trains, compared to 1,25-million in the same month of 1975. The most dramatic iocrease in business was reported on trains to Florida from New York and Chicago. The increase was 16 percent: 60,475 passengers in January 1976 compared to 52,299 in January 1975. The Florida husiness has been so good, in fact, that Amtrak has had to stop offering its Week of Wheels car-reotal package for most of April. Uoder the program three people traveling by train between New York and Florida are given free use of a compact car with unlimited mileage for seven days. Only reservations made prior to March 5 are being honored for the period April 8 to 24. "We ran out of rental cars," an Amtrak spokesman said.

EASTER "BLACKOUTS"

In anticipation of heavy traffic during the mid-April Easter holiday period, certain bargain transportation plans, especially to Florida, have been temporarily discontinued. Among the plans affected is the $63 no-trills air fare to be less then perfection, we did have some good if not memorable evening meals et the Bottreaux. For £1.75 (about $3.50) the Murray family provided excelleot soups, nicely sauced fresh fish or more ambitious dishes such as beef Stroganoff, first-class salads and sound trifles. The food was helped by the starched linen and highly polished sliver and glassware.

Actually, Cornwall's best meals are the breakfasts: fruit juice; ham, sausage, eggs, bacon, mushrooms, kippers; cereal, porridge; toast, butter, marmalade, honey, jam; coffee, tea, cocoa, Cornish as are also special: hot buttered scones, thick, sliky cream, strawberry preserves, honest tea. Lunches for us, at least, were invariably picnics: a bottle of Mackeson's beer, tomatoes and fruit, Cheddar, Chester or Wensiydale cheese. On occasion, we lunched on the local version of a Mexican taco, a Cornish "pasty," a mixture of meat, potatoes, onions and e few other oddments wrapped inside a cloak of pastry dough. The final product has about twice the specific gravity of lead; it is more or less digestible, more when hot, less when cold.

Boscastle turned out to have e historical appeal as well as a minimum of emmets. It was already e lively fishing and trading village when, in 1100, the French family de Bottreaux settled there in the wake of the Norman invasion. The de Bottreaux actually were late arrivals; Neolithic relics are still being kicked up or plowed under by the local farmers. Nearby are some Roman milestones and the remains of fifth- and aixthcentury Celtic monastic cells. Most of the courches in this part of Cornwall are, in fact, dedicated to saints of this period, with such unfamiliar names as St. Juliett, St. Teath, St. Minver, St. Gennys. And many of them, unlike those in other parts of England, are Methodist. For this is John Wesley country and local congregations can proudly hoast that "John Wesley preached bere."

It was hard to believe, looking at the minuscule harbor and quay, that Boscastla was once a crowded, brawling port. As e center of smuggling and piracy, it boasted one of the most notorious "strips" of taverns and brothels in southern England. Just e century or so ago, the amiable little cottages along the harbor, now quietly inhabited by fishermen, potters and summer visitors, rang with tha laughter and screams of sailors, smugglers and sluts.

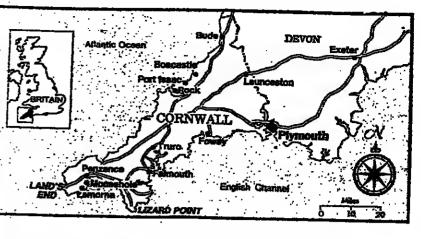

Although Boscastle is on the sea, it has no beach. But the matter is easily remedied: Rock (a village, not a geological formation) is only a half-hour's drive away. Here, a fine sand beach borders a lovely cove. The swimming is glorious, the sailing excellent, golf is handy. And, for reasons I am unable to explain, there were hardly any peopla there on a warm, sumy weekend in

We lingered in Boscastle for several. days, then drove on to Land's End. It was about two hours away and we toyed with the idea of driving there and then returning to the peace and quiet of Boscastle. The alternative was to drive down to the south coast in the hope of finding another village that was also free from tourist bordes. We decided to press our luck at Land's Determined to steer clear of the county's midsummer hordes, the author took a few wrong turnings but found serenity in hamlets like Boscastle (above) and Mousehole. He recommends using a large-scale map, to identify villages, and a small car, which "makes it easier to negotiate the lanes leading to them."

"Take a look at Port Isaac on the way, m'dear; it's not gone commercial," publican at Napoleoo's Inn had told me. By then, I bed become used to the localism "m'dear." It was used by male or female when addressing either male or female. In due course, a parking attendant et Land's End would fold it into his admonition: "Your blinking little car is taking up two spaces, m'dear."

About 10 miles west of Boscastle we saw the Port Isaac signpost and took the turn, following two miles of a narrow lane which, like the road to Boscastle, lunges steeply toward tha sea. But unlike Boscastle, the road peters out before it reaches the village. One then has to walk across some fields, up a hill, and then down to the tiny harbor and the tight cluster of bouses that is Port Isaac. There we found a couple of small inns and a pub or two, all looking out toward a glorious view of cliffs and sea. And no emmets.

And then, on to Land's End. The "First and Last Petrol Station," the "First and Last Bed and Breakfast," and the "First and Last Pub" announced that the End was near. With consummate foresight, the British have preserved the area itself from exploitation. Here busy, bustling England ends with a high cliff and sea-washed rocks. And then-nothing. The next landfall is the coast of North America, Until five centuries ago the Western World ended in this jagged; giant pile of stone,

We had lunch at Lamorna. Unless you have a large-scale map you can't find it. And that turned out to be a key to Cornwall without emmets. A large-scale map and a small-size car permitted us to Identify villages with barely perceptible names located on hairline, squiggly roads leading off the main highway. Having done this, we could then cope with lanes that were bardly more than footpaths and village streets that were hardly more than walkways.

Lamorna was such a place. Off the main road from Land's End, along the south coast, there is a narrow lane that burrows its way through a tunnel of a cove is this harbor-hamlet which seems to bava been backed out of the surrounding massive cliffs. It consists of a sbop, a dozen fishermen's cottages and a few artists' studios and potters' workshops. Wa sat on the breakwater, and had our cheese and beer while watching the only other people in sight: a few fishermen puttering around their boots, three Dutch tourists and a half-dozen scuba-divers unloading their gear.

After lunch we decided to push on to another village about 10 miles eway that also met our criteria. This village, three miles south of Penzance, had an irresistible, additional appeal; its name was Mousehole (pronounced, as we were soon told, "Mousall").

Mousehole-like Boscastle, Port Isaac, Lamorna and a dozen other barbor villages on the Cornish coast-was until fairly recently barely accessible by road. The houses are typically clustered in a tight, maze-like pattern at tha foot of a steep hill sloping north or south from the main east-west route which traverses tha series of lovely Cornish downs and bleak moors. The villagers' traditional business was on the water rather than on the land and so their orientatioo, physical as well as spiritual, was toward the sea.

Mousehola has e recorded history that stretches far back into Britain's early centuries. But except for the old quay, which was built a bundred years before Columbus discovered America, and a few other bits and pieces of bouses here and there, tha physical reminders of Mousehole's ancient past hava all disappeared. A Spanish fleet attacked and burned the town in the late 16th century, but since most of the present structures were rebuilt on their old foundations, the lanes and alleys leading from the harbor zigzag crazily around blind corners and into unexpected cul-de-sacs.

The seamen and fishermen who dominated Mousehole only a few decades ago would hardly recognize it now-at least during the summer season. Vacationers occupy many of the cottages, several antique shops are tucked away in the cellars and corners of the larger houses, and—the telltale sign—a Cornish pasty and a fish-and-chip shop lie in wait for the strollers on the harborfront. Its resident artists and potters give Mousehole a bohemian rather than a rustic quality. Perhaps in winter some of the old flavor of fish and sea are more apparent, but during July the fishermen and sailors were in little evideoce in the lanes and the pubs. Unlike Boscastle, incidentally, there is swimming at the pebbla beach beyood the breakwater.

We arrived at Mousehole the third Saturday in July, the day of the annual summer carnival. But despite the festivi-

GEOGRAPHY—Nassau County begins on Loeg Island where Naw York City enda It is about 15 miles long and 20 miles wide. Like Suffolk Coanty, its lerger, morn rural neighbor, Neesan, with its excellent beachos and sandy coves, was shaped by huge glaciere about 40,000 years ago. The county was cettled in 1643 by colonists from Stamford, Conn., led by John Carman, and was incorporated 77 years ngo. As recently as 20 years ago there were large dairy farms in Nassau. However, a sufficient number of bueolic areas remain and there are more than enough beaches and parks to insure 2 sense of openness. Although Nassae is habitually called New York's hedroom county, those who live there—and there ere 1.5 million of them—like to think of their area es having e distinctly separate identity from that of the nrban lendscape to which about 175,000 of them commune for 2 livelihood.

HOLLAND AMERICA SH WILL GET YOU ON VACATION FASTER THAN ANY AIRPIANE.

An airplane is designed to shorten travel time. A Holland America cruise ship is designed to do away with it completely. By turning it into vacation time.

So while airplane passengers do things like circle airports, Holland America passengers do things like circle dance floors.

And while airplane passengers enjoy a seat in a spacious cabin with hundreds of other people, Holland America passengers enjoy a spacious private cabin with all the comforts of home.

Then as your Holland America ship cruises from New York, you can drive golf balls into the world's bluest green, enjoy the view from the bridge or play bridge and bask in the sun. There are also first run movies, first-rate entertainers and all the dancing you can stand.

And Holland America not only serves superb meals, but offers a choice of mealtimes most convenient for you. Plus a midnight buffet and 24-hour room service. And no tipping required.

If you'd like to squeeze all this vacation into just 7 days, take off on Holland America's s.s. Statendam to Bermuda (with 3 days at sea and 4 days at Front St. in downtown Hamilton). Or on the s.s. Rotterdam to Nassau and Bermuda. For even more vacation try one of the s.s. Veendam's 10 or 11-day Caribbean cruises. Each ship offers the elegance of an international resort and the experience of a cruise line that's been cruising the world for 103 years.

So why waste time flying? Call your travel agent or check the schedule below and mail it with your name and address to Holland America Cruises, 2Penn Plaza, New York, 10001. Or call (212) 760-3880.

more than 300 cities across the country since 1960.

Some 200 small companies moved into the vacuum, flying regular schedules into the small cities with aircraft ranging from three-seat Beechcraft Bonanzas to mini-airlioers seating 19. Scores of commuter airlines sank without a trace. The survivors are oow teetering on the edge of profitability. In fact, commuters are, collectively, the most flourishing segment of the generally sluggish air travel industry.

About two-thirds of their passengers -many of them businessmen-use the commuters to make connections with the big airlines at hub airports like Kennedy, La Guardie end Newark. Eleven commuters fly into the New York area eirports from Binghamton, N. Y., Reading, Pa., Asbury Park, N. J., and scores of other small cities in the Northeast. But in airline terminology, "commuter" refers to the planes, oot the passengers. The Civil Aeronautics Board bestowed the label, for want of e better one, to distinguish commuter planes from unscheduled air taxis and charter services.

For e passenger transferring from a major sirline to e commuter, there is an obrupt change in ambience, from toe plastic womb of e depersonalized flying mechina to the reletively roughhewn, intimate etmosphere of old-time

It was departure time for Commend 'Airways' Flight 47 from Pittsfield, Mass., to La Guardia Airport. The ticket azent completed his sales, hustled out of the one-story terminal, loaded the baggage and two caged cats eboard the 15-passenger de Havilland Twio Otter and pulled the chocks from the wheels. The gray-haired captain and his young first officer came out of the terminal with their oins passengers, "Nice oight for flying," he said to mo as we boaroed. "It's a little cloudy down south but not hed."

At 7,000 feet, the oormal cruislog altitude for commuter aircraft, I felt a sense of really flying that is missing on a continent-spanning jet et 30,000 feet. Cloud formations have their charms. but they tend to pall after an hour or 50; I found the passing panorame of hills, farms end highways from e puddie-jumping commuter much more entertaining.

The capins of commuter planes are not generally pressurized, and thus are not airtight, so the drone of the engines is much louder than in the super-eogined jetliners. The passeoger feels more a part of the flying process that way-and be feels much closer to the elements, too.

As it turned out, the captalo's weathor prediction had been wrong. Thirty minutes after takeoff, as we neared New York, a thunderstorm flashed over the city and La Guardle was closed to in the turbulent air like e duck on e But the commuter-air taxi group still under the same Federal Aviation Administratioo rulea as the major airlines: if a Boeing 747 can take off, so can a Twin Otter.

In the event, what I was worrled about was oot taking off, but landing. To save fuel, the captain of our Otter set down at Westchester County Airport to wait out the storm-while the folks in the big airliners were swinging lo holding patterns up over the city. "We can land on a very abort strip," the captain said, "so when La Guardia opeos, probably we can sneak in aheed of the big planes." And we did, landing there with little delay once traffic was moving egain.

It had not been my favorite flight, (although I can remember a much worse bouncing in a 707 at 25,000 feet over Cleveland), but it had pointed up some of the differences between commuters and the big lines. When I'd got to feeling a bit queasy, there'd been πο stewardess to ring for. There rarely is on commuters, because flights are sbort -averaging 100 miles, as opposed to 300 miles for regional lines and 800 for trunks. (When there is e stewardess, sbe'e likely to serva drinks and candy out of a picnic hamper.)

There had been e special elr of we're in this together between pilot and passeogers, and among passengers them. selves. And the pilot bed been informative about the situation and, to the degree possible, eccommodating. A veteran passenger passed on to me a story of just how eccommodating the Command pilots can be: One day, a man who had not been forewarned that there is no lavetory oo e Beech 99 felt an urgent call of octure en route to Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Swiftly weighing the alternatives, the pilot landed at a small airport along the way and let the passenger relieve himself before the flight was resumed.

The traveler leaving the saoctuary of e jumbo jet for a tiny commuter aircraft (it would take five Beech 99's, oose-totail, to make up the length of e 747) mey have some safety qualms. Command Airways responds to such with reassuring statistics: Its 24 captains end first officers, all of whom hold the Air Transport Pilot's license required for trunk end regional pilots, have carried more than 400,000 passengers eince the line began in 1966 without an injury.

Statistics for eccidents on commuter lines in geoeral are hard to come by, since they are lumped in with the 3,000 unscheduled eir taxi services in statistics compiled by the Netional Transportation Safety Board. The result is that e single-plane taxi operator is in the same category with a commuter elrline flying 200,000 people a year to a dozen destinations.

For what little they may be worth in judging the safety of commuters, the N.T.S.B.'s statistics show e steady dehas roughly five times as meoy ecci-

Commuter airline feres and schedules are oot regulated by the Civil Aeronautics Board, as they are for trunk end regionel carriers. Consequently, the commuter operators set their own fares, based on their costs and the competition, which is more often the private eutomobile and rental car than another

Where a commuter's route duplicates thet of a regional airline, rates are generally comparable; if there is a difference, the commuter often will be higher. For example, Allegheny Airlines charges $31 one way from New York to Bingbamtoo: Command Airways' fare is $33. Suburban Airlines, a commuter hased in Reading, Pa., will fly you from New York to Weshington for $37; the major airlines charge $34.

If you're looking for economy, the bus is still the way to go. The bus fare from New York to Pittsfield, Mass., is $11.15, compared with $26 for a flight oo Command. But while the bus takes 4 hours 15 minutes, Command makes it to J.F.K. or La Guardia in about 50 minutes, and Command's on-time record, varying monthly from 81 to 89 percent, is much better than that of any major airline.

Command Airweys ranks 30th among gers carried per year (about 80,000) and miles flown (over 1.5 million). It makes "It's absolutely nothing the aircraft deots per 100,000 hours flown as the 70 flights daily with three Twin Otters and pilot can't handle," Command's major airlines. This may be due partly and two 15-passenger Beech 99's, servsenior captain, George M. Ernwine, to the fect that the commuters and ing its home bese-Poughkeepsie-Weplater assured me. Commuters operate taxis make meny more takeoffs and pingers Falls-and Binghamton, Pitts-

Founder and president of Command Airways is Kingsley G. Morse, e lanky, 44-year-old Harvard Business School graduate who, like most commuter operators, is e man of all work, It is not unusuel to see him loading baggage at his Dutchess County Airport terminal. "You sweep the floor, if oecessary," he said, "and you clean out the barf bags oo the eirplanes. Hell, I heve more in common with a restaurant owner or botel man than I do with an eirline

Still, Morse has come e long wsy from his beginnings in 1966 with five antiquated and trouble-prone pistonengine planes plying the New York-Poughkeepsie route exclusively. "At that time, commuters were called scheduled eir taxie, and they hed e very bad reputation for safety and dependebility," Morse remembers. "So I wented a name that connoted confidence and authority and came up with Command. When we first flew into Kennedy and used the name, a trunk pilot was listening in on the frequency when we were talking to the tower, and he let out a roar of leughter."

Command and the other commuters are having the latest, if not last, laugh. They mey remain cottage industries compered with trunk and regional airlines, but Uoited is likely to be sharing those friendly skies with increasing numbers of small planes bound for Pittsfield, Reading and Asbury Park in the

The Future: Laissez-faire Or C. A. B.?

In the tightly regulated airline Industry, the commuters are a laissez-faire capitalist's dream. Trunk and regional lines must get C.A.B. approvel before . enteriog or leaving e market or raising e fare. Virtually the only economic regulation affectiog them is size of aircraft. With a great sigh he would draw up to the curb, try for a moment to appear to listen to her navigational theories, and finally snatch the map from her. Then, shoulders hunched, driving glasses raised, he would give the man a cold, skeptical squint, his nose grazing its surface.

The three of us in back-my older brother, my younger aister and mewould not know to what extent these missed turns and failed landmarks were affecting my father's disposition until he dropped the map, put the car in reverse, and-hat ajar, glasses askew, mouth agape—turned his drained face around to regard the traffic through the rear window. When we saw the desperation in his eyes eod heard the quickness of his breaths we knew that what had seemed a laughling matter was now deadly serious business.

My father's father knew very littla about cars, but he was nonetheless full of automotive tore, which he could deliver with an impressiva sprinkling of technical terms—magneto, differential and bushing figuring most prominently. In the late 1940's grandfather took an unaccountable shine to a Hudsoo dealer named Happy who operated out of a lot near Cleveland, Ohio. As far as my grandfather was concerned, Happy was America's only honest car dealer and the Hudson (later the Cadillac when Hudson went out of business) was the finest machine on the road. If my grandfather knew little about cars, his son knew less, and was apparently so cowed by my grandfether's overconfident magneto references that even when he was in a position to get whopping breaks on Fords and Lincolns, even when be did not live anywhere remotely near Cleveland, my father bought Hudsona from Hudsons were tubby, sloping cars which, parked curbside on a winter dev, could be mistaken for forlorn and plow-packed slabs of snow. Their interiors were upholstered in a gray, absorbent fuzz which, after a few weeks' wear, grew redolent with every odor through which we journeyed: cigarette smoke, gasoline fumes, the sooty effluent of our nativa Chicago.

I had a tendency to get car sick, an affliction in no way mitigated by the comforts of our Hudsons. Whenever I complained of queaziness my mother suggested that I lie back and stare outside at something stable, like the trees. But by leaning back I not only fell prey to every jounca and sway but all the aromes of industry as well, and in no time I would find myself standing by the car on some unfamiliar roadside trying to determine whether actual vomiting was in the cards. My father went along with my always inconclusive whoopsy stops (as my sister gleefully called them) but it required everything short of threatening him with physical harm to get him to stop for less pressing purposes. He could drive for five, six hours at a stretch and then stop only because the rest of us could stand it no longer.

His own father would stop for anything-let a passenger casually express a fundness for ice cream sodes and my grandfather would jam on the brakes, swerve across lanes of heavy traffic and deliver his carload to the nearest dairy bar. My father must have resolved, during one of his parents' lurching, distracted tours, that when he grew up and had a car and a family of his own his trips would be run on a strictly no-nonsense basis.

When, at long last, my father was coovinced of our aggregate need to stop for food, sleep, and relief, the Law of the Flfth Choice would overtake our deliberations. We never selected the first restaurant we passed once meal time was announced. It was assumed by all that better spots awaited us around the bend. The second restaurant we came to would be either fancier or slummier than the general expectation, and if it was fancier, the third would seem slummier, and vice versa. The fourth restaurant would look all right to all but one of us, whose objections ("They won't have burgers," 'They'll require ties") could not be argued down until we were miles past.

Now a gloomy apprehension would set in. Had we passed up our last chance? The miles would stretch and multiply without a sign of an eatery, and we would each resolva that no matter what we came to next-Chinese, greasy spoon or barbecue-we would settle for it. Thus, without fail, would we obey the Law of the Fifth

Once inside the restaurant (wblch would usually be nearing closing time) my father would command; "Order first," before we could make it to the restrooms. He judged the wisdom of our orders oot on the basis of price, taste or nutritional valua but on how long it would take to prepare. Ordering dessert was an act of defiance in our family, and if we lingered over it my father would glare at us, jingling his keys to remind us of our broader

No two siblings outside the animal kingdom had as intensa a sense of territorial imperative as my sister and I, and some of our fiercest battles were waged over the question of whose portion of the back seat was whose. At one point my parents attempted newspaper in the wind to make them to settle this dispute by sticking a length of tape down the center of the seat, but there then ensued a battle over whose portion of the tape was whose. In the end, my brother, who liked to ait up front with the grownups, was deployed to keep us separated. Five years my senior, seven years my sister's senior, my brother seemed at times to regard us as nephew and niece rather than brother and aister, and was always trying to avoid any categorical association with us. Seated In our midst he would lean far forward, arms crossed along the backrest of the front seat, trying to engage his parents in sophisticated conversation while my sister and I buried Cracker Jacks at each other behind his back.

When we saw the desperation in father's eyes and heard his quick breaths we knew that what had seemed a laughing matter was now deadly serious business."

Because of my weak stomach I could not read, draw or work puzzles on car trips, and had to make do with window games. These consisted of my sticking my head out the window and holding it there until the flesh began to freeze, seeing how long I could hold my cupped hand steady in the buffeting bighway wind. In patriotic moments 1 beld banners of cloth and flutter, but this was eventually prohibited after one of my flags got loose, swooped around inside the car, and swirled across my father's field of vision, very nearly forcing him off onto us out the driveway.

A few years ago my father took us to visit an old friend of his who was summering on his farm in New Hampshire. The friend, a Mr. Betes, was the kind of man who sorts his screws according to length, gauge, and function in specially saved, labeled, matching jars, and openly suggests everyone follow his example. It is quite possible that Mr. Bates never took a wrong turn lo his life.

During the course of the visit word leaked out via my mother that my fether had had some difficulty in finding the Bates' homestead, So when wa were prepering to leave, Mr. Bates announced that he was going to lead us back to the main highway. My father did his best to talk him out of it, but my father's best was no metch for Mr. Bates, who was not going to be responsible for any untidiness and dismay on his quiet country lanes. Declaring that he would stop for gas along the way, and sternly suggesting that my father do the same, Mr. Bates got into his car and led

All this grated terribly on my father. Reading maps was slavisb enough, but nothing compared to meekly following behind his old friend's fender. By the time be was led to a gas station, my father bad resolved that he was going to lose Mr. Bates. "Now, for God's sake," be commanded as we drew up to the pump, "nobody go to the bathroom."

As the mechanic finished pumping gas into our car, Mr. Bates ducked into the station to pick up a can of windshield wiper solvent. Seeiog his opening, my father paid the mechanic and sped out onto the road. His urgent desire to escape Mr. Bates and his dictates worked wonders on his sense of direction, and we reached the highway without a bitch. But a few miles down the river my fether realized that be bad given the mechanic a $20 bill for a $5 purchase, and turned the car around to pick up his change. A mile or so oack toward the station, we came upon Mr. Bates speedin in the opposite direction, a "You're going the wrong way waving my father's change.

AFRICA'S WONDERFUL LAND OF CONTRASTS

Each year, more and more tourists are discovering and enjoying all that Cameroon has to offer.

A LOST BUT FOUND PARADISE:

From December to June, the sun shines on northern Cameroon's enormous savannas. Where, as the story goes, Noah's Ark ran aground, and its inhabitants found a home. In these lost but found paradises of Waza, Boubandijida, Benoue and Kalamaloue National Parks, elephants, giraffes, lions, cheetahs, gazelles and a myriad of birds and other jungle animals come in contact with man.

MOUNTAIN VALLEYS:

in all seasons it is the invigorating air of the western mountain which beckons the visitor to Dschang in the Bamboutos, Bamenda or Buea at the food of majestic Mount Ca-

SANDY BEACHES:

Not far from the towering heights are endless, warm beaches stretching from Bamusso to Kampo, through Victoria, Londji and Kribi. This sandy coastal region abounds in recreational opportunities.

THICK FORESTS:

In the verdant areas of the south, huge metropolitan areas: Yaounde, Doula, Buea, Victoria, Kribi, Edea and Ebolowa, are rising out of the equatorial forest.

Cameroon harbors a mosaic of ethnic groups which all display a rich, long cultural tradition. In fact, Cameroon is Africa in miniature.

It's our basic concept. It description stirs travelers to

WE DO FOUR things, and

WE DO FOUR things, and bere they are.

1. We liv you to one of the major cities of Europe on a scheduled airlina—Pan Am, TWA, Swisself, Air Franca and the like. At the very lowest tare.

2. It's an erticle of faith with us that the only way to see Europe, the real Europe, is to go self-driving through the lovely countryside. And so we put you behind the wheel of your own .car, untimited miseage.

We give-you an ideal itinerary to go along, thei accops up all that's best and misses nothing worthwhite. You'll be a carefree vegabond, searching out quaintness and charm, seeing casties, medievel walled towns. Jermans' markets towns, lermera' markets, wine-trails, local lestivals, ancient fishing ports, bijou lekes, high mountains and toy valleys. Plus the best of the big cities.

3. For your specific itinerary ws provide s let kit of guidance. There are color-ful maps and lolders—and the Autoscene Guidebook. How you'll treasure that ietter. Il talks lo you as you go, about the sights you're seeing end expariences you're having. It names road turnings in the countryside and will get you in end out of cities. It reveals Old World discoveries that we have made, over the years. for many months. But call.

Ireland leads the way once more in the saving of the green.
The hotels of Ireland now offer TELEPLAN...the economical way to call from a hotel to the U.S.A.

In Ireland, they're doing something about the problem, found in many countries, of unreasonable surcharges on calls to the U.S. made from the traveler's hotel. Irish hotels have agreed to add no more than 50 pence (about $1.00) to your hotel bill for placing a collect or telephone credit card call. There's no need to pay the hotel for the call itself, for it will appear later on your regular home or office telephone bill. For instance, a threeminute station credit card call from your room, nights and Sundays, will cost 50p on your hotel bill. Then you'll be billed only $4.05 plus tax when you get home from the trip. The same call placed collect would be 50p plus $7.20 and tax. If you prefer to charge the call to your hotel room, the added hotel charges will be somewhat higher and will vary with the length of your call.

Collect and telephone credit card service—a way of calling now and paying later.

And TELEPLAN—another adventure in green, from the Irish.

Baccarat on the Baltic: An Uncommon Air/Sea Holiday

You've got two weeks coming—and a yearning for Europe. Will you have to settle for another fitful fortnight—that blur of airports and cuies, hotels and restaurants, sights and sounds that defy separate memory and meaning? Or will you simply fly somewhere, stay put for two weeks, and then fly back?

Now, it appears, there's a most uncommon alternative to both of the above. It's a 15-day, air/sea Bakie. cruise, newly put together by Finnair for 1976, and offered for $1,215.50°. It combines the knowy of ocean sailing with the jet-speed travel a two-week vacationer needs.

First Amsterdam then Travemunde. Travemunde?

You fly to Amsterdam and spend three days in that delightful city. Sightseeing takes you past winding canals and narrow streets. You take in the Rijksmuseum, with its famous Rembrandts, and the Royal Palace. There's lots of time to discover Amsterdam's many

After a short flight to Hamburg, you motor to Travenunde, Germany. Relatively unknown to Americans, but "in" to Europeans, this Baltic resort offers exciting, contrasting worlds. It "swings" with night clubs and gambling casinos, where you can try your luck at roulette and baccarat. Travenunde's other face is medieval, with centuries old buildings and a scenic, barbor.

Cruises on the historic Baltic

At Travenunde, you board the "Finnpartner", your floating hotel. There's a swimming pool, squash, target practice by day; ballroom dancing, masquerades, parties at night—and more. The ship's professional chefs have received the famous Chaine de Rôusseurs award.

Ports of call are interesting and varied. They include Nynashamn, Sweden, and the faccinating city of Riga, ancient capital of Latvia, opened to tourists only a few years ago and filled with excitement in summer.

The cruise ends at modern, thriving Helsinki, capital of Finland and a delightful city to visit. Among the sights you'll see are the new Finlandia Hall, where U.S. and Soviet leaders met, and 400-year-old Senate Square, dating back to the city's earliest history. You return home by way of a comfortable Finnair flight.

Cruising aboard the Finnpartner is no gamble. Laxory and high-style living are assured, as you discover one

Finland and beyond

Another finnair 15-day air/sea package is called "Finland and Beyond". "Beyond" means both east and west. From Helsinki, the cruise ship, BORE III, sails to Leningrad—an entirely visa-free trip. This legendary city offers incredible riches the Hermitage Museum, the Summer Palace, beautiful cathedrals, baroque mansions. Included are two sightseeing tours and a choice of tickets to the Russian circus, opera or ballet.

After the return cruise to Helsinki, where you'll have ample time to explore this fascinating city, you'll visit Turku, Finland's oldest city, and original capital. Then, it's back to the comforts of a cruise for the trip to Mariehamn, Finland, and on to Stockholm, the "Venice of the North", with its lovely Old Town. From there, it's on to Copenhagen where a Famair jet whisks you home.

So you see, you can do Europe differently: fly, cruise, swing, snooze—even gamble—and all in two weeks.

Complete schedules for all tours can be obtained from Finnair, 580 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10036.

Some people in Cornwall are now trying to kindle a more aggressive kind of Cornish consciousness. There is a quickening of interest in disinterring the old Cornish language, and an amalgam of nostalgia and opportunism has given rise to efforts to reformulate the Cornish Parliament, the "Stannary," all but forgotten for two centuries. A few, more extreme, gentlemen hava organized a Cornish independence movement.

Cornwall is by no means all sun and fun. The women-who day after summer day give a smiling welcome into their homes, gamely change the sheets and offer up a vast breakfast for $5-are trying to bridge tha gap between austarity and comfort. Unemployment had been high during . the quiet period between early October and late June, and there may be more fertile ground for the fanatics to furrow if the economic situation doesn't improve. Such undercurrents are not visible to the naked eye and perhaps it is unseemly to sour the Cornish cream. ### Announcing charter flights from TWA. That's right, TWA.

If your idea of charter flights has always been some fly-by-night operation, you're in for some good news. TWA, who incidentally has been flying for some 50 years, is in the charter business,

With the same excellent crews and solid dependability you've become used to on our regular flights.

The same good cooks cook the food. (Delicious!) You'll enjoy beverages and perhaps take in a movie,

And your plane will arrive and depart at the same convenient terminals as all TWA flights.

In most every city you're flying to, there'll be a TWA office to give you any assistance. TWA is the only U.S. scheduled airline with a major network of offices and airport facilities both here and abroad. And they don't disappear if there's any hitch in your plans.

On Trans World Charters, TWA provides the plane and crew to a Charter Operator, who then takes care of all

Even though TWA cannot make your reservations. because of government regulations, we'll be happy to give you charter information. So just call us. Or you can call your Travel Agent.

Reservations will be made through your Travel Agent or a Charter Operator. (And they're the ones who can tell you about pricing and cut-off dates for booking.) After that, all there is to do is count your savings.

The Great Swiss Bargain gives you three weeks in Europe with round-trip airfare from New York, accommodations, and a railroad pass for just Swissair has put together the package that makes Switzer-land affordable. We've combined the . individual 22-45 day APEX airfare, the lowest scheduled airfare, with our lowest priced land package, to give you three weeks in the center of Europe in May, September or and August the entire package costs $105 more.) You get double occupancy inn accommodations in the northeast of Switzerland or in the western region. So with your 2nd class Holiday Rail Pass you're never far from all the sights.

The Great Swiss Bargain is just one of Swissair's low-priced packages. You can take advantage of many of the same features (at an addiditional cost) with one of our Take-A-Break fly and drive packages. Except you can adjust the Take-A-Break program to fit your own needs. For instance, you can substitute a rental car with unlimited free mileage, or a first class Eurailpass for the Swiss Holiday Rail Pass. You can also get a two week package. Combine a visit to Switzerland with a visit to Vienna. Or spend every night in a first class hotel in Switzerland or Italy.

To get back to The Great Swiss Bargain, there are a few technicalities. You must buy your airfare two months ahead. So book now if you want to go in May. If you cancel, or change your airfare reservation, you'll get a full refund except for $50. There's a $15 charge each way if you travel on weekends. No stopovers are allowed. And you must stay from 22 to 45 days.

But that's not too much to ask, when you think of all the money you're saving. So don't wait.
Call your TRAVEL AGENT or Swissair at (212) 995-4400.

All airfares are subject to gov-ernment approval.

For the first time in history: You're able to fly non-stop to Tokyo.

Until now, you had a choice of four wonderful stops on the way to Japan: Anchorage, Seattle, San Francisco, or Fairbanks.

Now you have another choice: no stops.

Starting April 26, Pan Am will introduce the new 747. The 747 SP.

The SP standing for special performance.

And its first special performance will be New York to Tokyo two hours faster than ever before.

We'll have three flights a week. Monday, Thursday, and Saturday at 12:00 noon. Each one features a choice from among 5 entrees in our expanded first class section, and 3 in economy. There will be movies shown along the way ($2.50 per headset, not per picture; no charge in first class). And at no extra charge, all the room a wide-body plane has for you to stretch out.

Naturally, the 747 SP also has our elegant first class upper-deck dining room. (As always you can arrange to have a seat at one of the tables by reserving in advance.) To get on one of our new 747 SP's, see your travel agent.

now on nothing will be stopping you.

If you want to go to Tokyo, from America's airline to the world.

Korean food is as exciting to behold as it is to eat: This least includes Bul Kal Bee, barbecued beef ribs, being prepared by the young lady, and Shin Seon Ro, lower left, an exotic appetizer of beef, eggs, carrots, spend a year exploring shrines, Buddhas, palaces, tombs, ruins and museums, and barely scratch the surface.

In our country Americans are not tounsts. They are old friends.

In our country you can drink macju, a beer some people call the best in the world.

For $2 you can feast on bulgogiand kimchee and rice and huge bowls of soul-stirring soup. (That's why everyone here eats all the time.)

In our country you can see the Orient as it was of luxury 747's and DC10's. Crewed by some of the nicest people in the sky. And your flight is a nonstop feast of colors and costumes and foods and wines and music, to bewitch and beguile you.

Come first, or last, or instead.

And no matter which tour you choose, after you land we don't take off.

We're there with offices throughout Europe staffed with people who can answer questions you might have.
